Intense pulsed light therapy in the management of hereditary benign telangiectasia.

Purcell E¹, Condon C.

Abstract

Hereditary benign telangiectasia is an idiopathic condition that causes considerable cosmetic embarrassment but has eluded successful treatment due to its extensive nature. We report a case of hereditary benign telangiectasia of the lower limbs in which the challenge of treating an extensive vascular lesion is met by using an Intense pulsed light (IPL) source.

PMID: 15191828 [PubMed - indexed for MEDLINE]